

CALL FOR THE PARIS CONFERENCE

Peru People's Movement

February 2004

The I International Conference, which was held in Palermo early in 2003, indicated some decisive points for the advance of the international communist movement, and within this, of the RIM. The conference reaffirmed that revolution is the main historical and political trend, that the people's war is universally valid, that it has to be applied to the concrete conditions of each country, and that the main task today is the building of militarized Maoist parties, that initiate and develop people's wars in order to take the command of the new great wave of world proletarian revolution.

At this Conference, we reaffirm our decision to maintain aloft the red banner of Marxism-Leninism-Maoism, principally Maoism, combating revisionism and opportunism in the international communist movement. An integral part of this is the battle to defend the life of Chairman Gonzalo, Great Leadership of the PCP and of the Peruvian revolution. The minutes from the said conference, which we enclose, contribute to the understanding of this debate and form the basis for the second Conference and ask all Marxist-Leninist-Maoist parties and organizations and all proletarian revolutionary forces to take a stand.

The world events during this year have confirmed the urgency of the tasks pointed out by the Palermo Conference. The imperialists, headed by Yankee imperialism, who launched a "war without end" against the oppressed peoples, had no success in their aggression against Iraq and the Arab peoples. The people of Iraq develop a resistance which needs to be transformed into people's war. The fire is catching on in the entire Middle East, and also in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

Imperialism and the reactionary governments and their lackeys are suffering a great defeat in their efforts to stop the people's war in Peru, which, developing in strategic equilibrium, is building the conquest of state power on a national level. The advance of the people's war in Nepal is more and more worrying imperialism, which is intervening more and more directly, with a growing role being played by the Indian state.

In India, there is a growing unity of the Marxist-Leninist-Maoist forces, which develop armed anti-imperialist struggle and are marching toward the invincible line of the people's war. In the imperialist countries, the militarization of the states and the repression, the heavy attacks on the living conditions of the proletariat and the popular masses are in no way putting an end to but rather feeding the proletarian and popular revolt, with the new generation stepping into the scene of the class struggle, thus creating ever more favorable conditions for the advance, as took place in Italy, and the constitution of new, Marxist-Leninist-Maoist communist parties, in the fire of class struggle and closely bonded to the masses, so as to serve the initiation and development of the people's war, applied to the specific conditions of the imperialist countries.

The II International Conference has as its aim to combat the revisionist positions in the international communist movement, which more and more are favoring the interests of imperialism. Parliamentary cretinism is more and more losing ground and influence among the proletarian masses, which are entering the vortex of the new great wave of world proletarian revolution and demand a Marxist-Leninist-Maoist leadership that answers the world war of imperialism with world people's war. Through two-line struggle, active ideological struggle and debate. We are with this II Conference taking up the responsibility to take another step forward.
